OUR STORY

- ❖ RAUSI began as "The Alberta Military Institute" in 1920. In 1947 it became "The Alberta United Services Institute," and finally, the prefix "Royal" was added by royal granting 1979.
- ❖ Since 1920, the Institute has been housed at the Mewata Armoury in Calgary, sharing the Calgary Garrison Officers' Mess with the various units stationed in Calgary.
- ❖ The aim of the Institute has always included provision of support to the Regular and Reserve Units, as well as the Cadet Movement and our Veterans.
- ❖ Over the years, RAUSI has provided funds for Reserves, Bursaries, Cadet Corps, Veterans' Food Bank, Friends of the Colonel Belcher Society, The Military Museums and upgrading the Mess facility.
- ❖ In addition, RAUSI has assisted with special commemorative services, and provides a library, together with the University of Calgary, now housed at The Military Museums.
